Uttarakhand's Tamta tradition shapes copper by hand

In this regional copperware tradition, artisans cut metal sheets, hammer them into form, join vessel parts, and heat the finished piece.https://baaduli.com/product-category/metal-handicrafts/copper-handicrafts/

A RANGE OF SILHOUETTES

Different vessel shapes create different moods

Pair a compact, rounded vessel with a taller, etched form to show the range of copper silhouettes.

Compact and rounded

A grounded, approachable presence.

Tall and etched

A more vertical, considered accent.
